By the Management, and are Published in Full this Morning-Horsemen will Begin Arriving at the Track Saturday Morning-The Course is Being Pat in Exectiont Shape, the Rain Yesterday Helping Materially-A Successful Fair

Than the seventeenth annual state fair and exposition of the West Virginia State Fair Association will be the most successful of the seventeen is confidently predicted by Secretary George Hook, who was seen last night by an Intelligencer reporter.

"Here," said Mr. Hook, handing the reporter the entries for the horse races, "are the entries of 158 horses for the four days' racing, beginning Tuesday and concluding on Friday afternoon. Last year we had 130 entries. Not alone are this year's estries more numerous than this year's entries more numerous than ever before, but the horses generally are faster and of a higher class than those that have performed on our track at previous state fairs. We have horses from Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Michigan, New York, Kentucky and even from far-away Alabama. We have always treated the horsemen with invariable fairness, and as a result each year brings better horses and better races to our fair."

"How are the entries coming in for ex-year brings better horses and better races to our fair."

"How are the entries coming in for exhibits?" asked the Intelligencer man.
"Couldn't be better," responded the genial and hustling secretary. "Four days before the fair hast year we didn't have half as many entries as are already in for the fair next week. There is an increased interest all along the line. Ladies', children's and art departments will be very attractive. The entries in the live stock departments are coming in fast; the exhibits of sheep, cattle and driving horses will be beter than ever before, and the same statement, in fact, applies to every department of the entire exposition. With good weather we expect a record-breaking attendance, for we know the first day crowd will be an army of walking advertisements before which even the 'power of the press' would be put to flight; and you know I'm a firm believer in 'printers' ink' and plenty of it."

The entries for the harness races closed Tuesday night. The entries were compiled yesterday, with the following re-

The retail and wholesale establishments of the city having agreed to close their places on next Tuesday, in order to observe "Business Men's Day" at the state fair, Mayor Chew yesterday issued a proclamation requesting that all places of business close at moon on Tuesday. It is probable this unusual interest in the fair means that Tuesday will be one of the beat days of the week in point of attendance.

Principal Birch, of the Linsly Institute, says the attendance at that institution this term, which begins, on September 14, will be fully as large as last year's. The Indignation Meeting of Last Night was a Corker.

INDIGNATION WAS EXPRESSED

And a Committee Named to Take Back to Steubenville the "stand of Colors" that ts the Cause of all the Tranble-Cheese Cloth Flags May Go in Steubenville; but They Don't in Mingo-Aftermath of the Steubenville Centenntal.

Mingo Junction is up in arms about the treatment its citizens has received at the hands of the Steubenville centennial executive committee, and last night an indignation meeting was held, at which nearly every voter in town was present, and all were of the opinion that the town had been treated very shabbily by the citizens' committee of Jeffersen

The cause of the trouble was over a prize awarded by the centennial commit tee to the town in Jefferson county turning out the largest delegation in the trades display parade. The prize offered was stated to be a handsome stand of colors, and the various towns in old Jefcolors, and the various towns in old Jef-ferron were after the flag. Mingo Junc-tion was among them, and for months the prominent citizens of the iron town have been preparing for the big trades display. A citizens committee was ap-pointed and funds were raised with which to equip the delegation in a way that would reflect credit upon the town and at the same time take enough peo-ple into Steubenville to capture the prize, hands down.

The Mingoites even went so far as to nands down.

The Mingoltes even went so far as to uniform several secret organizations and pay the fare and expenses of several hundred Slavs who work in the mills there. The result was, there were 500 men in tha Mingo column when it was counted by the judges at Sœubenville, and the prize was awarded to the town.

It is not necessary to state how proud the town was of the honor and when it was stated that the stand of colors would arrive yesterday, the whole population was out to greet it. The box containing the prize was taken to the hall and opened by the city officials, but when the flag was unfuried there was a shout of indignation, for it was made of a material that closely resembled cheese cloth. An indignation meeting was called at once, at which ex-Connty Clerk Dave Simpson presided, and Editor R. A. Bryant, of the Jefferson County Advocate, was secretary. A committee was appointed to draft resolutions, but after a fifteen minutes struggle, they returned and announced that they could not find words in the vocabulary sufficiently strong to express their feelings. A committee consisting of Health Officer Frank S. Buchannon and James Bowman was then appointed to return the flag and they will do so to-day.

of the large audiences that heard the concerts being that the Conternos had one of the best bands in the country. Conducted by such a past-master as Luciano Conterno, who has associated with him Dr. G. E. Conterno, one of the brightest young musical lights before the public, it is not surprising that Conterno's famous band is generally considered fully the equal of Innes', Gilmore's. Sousa's and Brooke's.

The announcement that Manager Handlan, of Mozart park, had secured the big Conterno organization for an engagement this fall was received with great favor. The engagement continues two days, next Sunday and Monday. On Sunday two concerts will be given, the first in the afternoon beginning at 2:30 o'clock, and the other at night, 8 o'clock. On Monday there will be a special matinee concert, for the ladies and children, beginning at 2:30. The price of admission for children is placed at five cents and ladies at fifteen cents. General admission at all of the concert is twenty-five cents. The high class attraction would ordinarily comman higher prices, but the Mozart management has as its monto, "High class attractions and popular prices,"

"Old Glory."

"Old Glory."

When Manager Feinler, of the Grand opera house, was booking attractions for the present theatrical season at his popular play house, he was especially anxhous to secure high class companies for fair week, and he was very successful in this respect. For the first three nights and Wednesday matinee he secured Brady and Gorbett's most famous success, "Old Glory." The scenes in the drama are laid in Chill, and the action is embellished by a series of marvelous stage pictures, requiring for their production an immense amount of scenery. Among the most notable scenes are those showing the wreck of the revolving light house, and a battle in mid ocean. It is promised that the company which will present this famous drama will be first class in every respect, and that there will be the same elaborateness of detail which made it so successful during its run in New York and other eastern cities.

For Fair Week.

For Fair Week.

The Wheeling park management has billed one of the greatest attractions on record for fair week, the veriscope pictures of the great battle between Corbett and Fitzsimmons. They are the original taken at the ringside and cannot fail to attract great crowds. Photography of motion is of such recent perfection as a science that there are still a great many people who do not understand the principle of it. The secret of success in this art lies in the rapidity with which the pictures pass before the powerful electric lens. In the veriscope pictures of the Corbett-Fitzsimmons glove contest, over forty pictures pass upon the canvas in a single second. The veriscope is without doubt the most perfect of any of the projecting picture machines yet produced and is the only machine upon which was taken a record of the greatest flove contest of the century. In showing the fourteen rounds of this contest, together with the preliminary and final scenes, over 188,000 pictures are cast upon the canvas, each picture perfect in itself, and yet mergins so smoothly into each other that the whole seems like one picture endowed with the supernatural motion of life.

"In the Name of the Czar."

"In the Name of the Czar."

"In the Name of the Czar."

A good sized audience witnessed the first presentation in this city, at the Grand Opera House last night, of the thrilling melodrama "In the Name of the Czar." The preduction is first class in every respect. The drama tells a thrilling story of life in Russia, and requires two tons of massive special scenery for its presentation. There is a fascinating love story running through it, and the action is enlivened by some clever specialties, among them some vocal work by Gus Bruno, the vaudeville star. The story hinges on the troubles of a young Russian officer, who has many enemies high in the service of the czar, but all their evil plans are frustrated through the efforts of a wealthy American friend. The scenes are all very realistic, and the discrete ages theirling in the Agreeme he The scenes are all very realistic, and the climaxes are thrilling in the extreme, but climaxes are thrilling in the extreme, but there is a marked absence of the blood and thunder usually found in the con-ventional melodrama. The company is first class, and is much better than is or-dinarily found in a production of its character. "In the Name of the Czar" will be on the boards for the remainder of the week, and deserves crowded houses. houses.
